The Jamaica Chamber of Commerce Building was constructed in 1928-29 near the heart of the Jamaica, NY business district.

Grace Episcopal Church Memorial Hall, 155-24 90th Avenue (at Parsons Boulevard) The parish hall, completed in 1912, is part of the Grace Episcopal Church complex, one of the most historic religious sites in New York City. The two-story, red brick and limestone building was constructed in memory of the congregation's deceased parishioners, and included a gymnasium, auditorium, meeting rooms and offices. It was designed in the Tudor Gothic Revival style by the architecture firm of Upjohn and Conable.
